

Corn Belt Farmer Body Raps G. O. P., Lauds Democrats

Representatives of 1,000,000 Mid-West Farmers Commend Democrat Stand on Farm Relief.

STYLE FARM RELIEF GREAT MORAL ISSUE

Des Moines Meeting "Entirely Democratic"; Many Former Republicans To Vote for Smith.

Des Moines, Ia., July 16.—(United News.)—Condemning the action of the republican party convention at Kansas City for "indorsing the administration's attitude towards agriculture," the corn belt committee here today unanimously adopted resolutions commending the democratic party for its pledge to offer farm relief legislation.

"With every ounce of strength, we oppose the Hoover-Coolidge policy of industrialization of America at the expense of agriculture," one resolution reads.

The committee, which claims to be representative of 1,000,000 farmers, adopted its resolutions today after a day of discussion and speeches in which the republicans were accused of "closing the door on a just and needy cause."

"We condemn the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill last spring," another resolution stated. "Mr. Hoover has publicly declared the intention of carrying out the Coolidge policy if elected and support is being solicited among the agricultural interests of this stand."

Although none of the resolutions named Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, the democratic nominee, by name, his party platform was unqualifiedly indorsed and the "effort to obscure or submerge the issue by appeals to religious intolerance, wet and dry prejudices," was denounced.

The agricultural problem was described as "becoming as great a moral issue even as slavery was."

The Houston agricultural plank adopted by the democratic convention was indorsed "because it includes a definite indorsement of the principles for which the agriculturists have been fighting."

The committee voted to instruct the farmers of the country as to the records of candidates in farm relief matters. This action was taken to indicate the corn belt committee would take an active part in campaigning for the democratic ticket in the election.

"While recognizing and respecting the right of farmers to vote as their conscience dictates, we feel it our duty to furnish them the records and promises of candidates," this resolution reads.

The committee announced that such information would be passed on to the farmers through state agricultural association and associated organizations.

Farm leaders attending the meeting here today said that the conference was "entirely democratic" and that many of its members who formerly had voted the republican ticket had declared openly that they would support the presidential ticket chosen at the Houston convention.

GIOLITTI, FAMED ITALIAN POLITICAL LEADER, IS DEAD

Long Illness Proves Fatal to 85-Year-Old Statesman; Gets Final Blessing From Pope.

Cavour, Italy, July 17. (Tuesday.)—(AP)—Former Premier Giovanni Giolitti died at 1:35 o'clock this morning following a long illness from uremic poisoning.

The 85-year-old statesman took a serious turn for the worse last week and from that time hope for his recovery virtually was abandoned. Complications arose which caused a paralysis of one leg and the former premier himself realized that he could not live.

He maintained all his faculties and told his relatives, all of whom gathered at his bedside, that he was happy at the thought of again meeting his wife who died some years ago.

Sunday night, when it was seen that his condition was hopeless, he was given extreme unction and Pope Pius sent him the apostolic benediction.

From all over the world messages of sympathy were delivered to the old statesman.

For nearly four decades Giovanni Giolitti was one of the outstanding political figures of Italy.

During his most active years, whether in or out of the government, he wielded a power that was little less than that of a dictator.

He had served as premier five times and between the governments that he headed several premiers remained in power only at his discretion because of the majority he usually was able to control. However, with all his power and influence, Giolitti had rough sailing at times because his policies ran contrary to public opinion.

After the resignation of one of his governments a movement was inaugurated for his impeachment on charges of abuse of power as a minister; he fell into disfavor because of his attitude toward Italy's participation in the world war, and in 1918 was charged with treason by a member of the chamber of deputies, but was cleared of the charge by a parliamentary commission of inquiry.

SMITH TRAPS MAN WANTED IN GEORGIA

Warning Against Perjury Brings Admission and Alleged Stock Swindler Loses Extradition Fight.

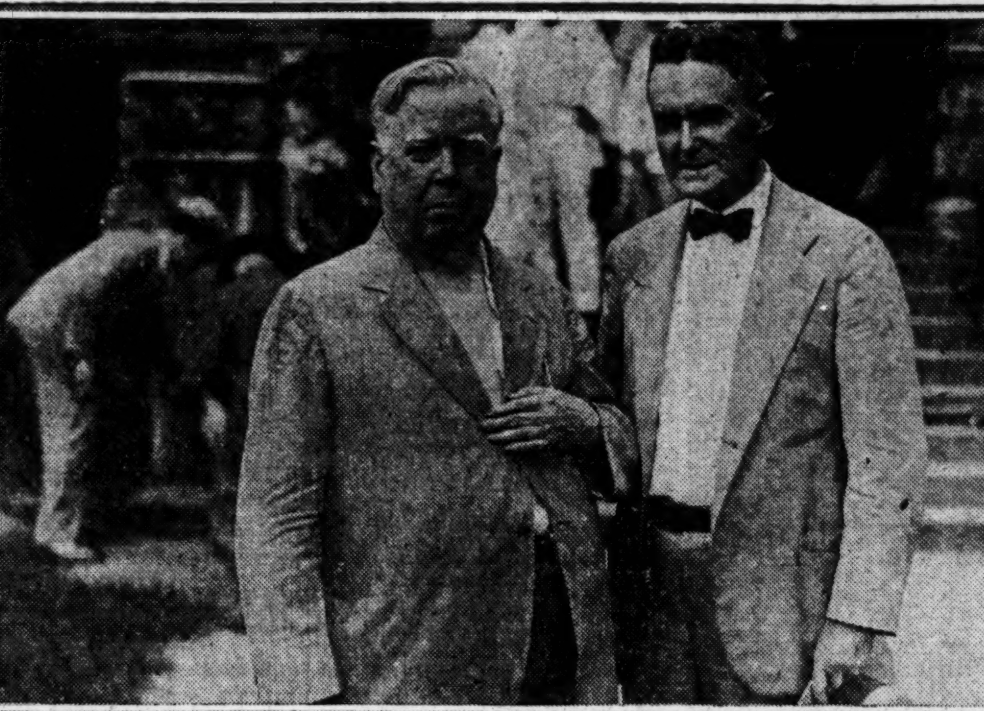

Albany, N. Y., July 16.—(AP)—George M. Saunders, dapper youth arrested several weeks ago in New York, today lost the first round of his battle to resist extradition to Georgia to answer to stock-swindling charges in Atlanta.

After placing Saunders under oath at a public hearing and quizzing him, Governor Alfred E. Smith decided there was ground for extradition and signed the warrant.

Elmer F. Quinn, New York state senator, as Saunders' counsel, announced he would seek a writ of habeas corpus.

COUNCIL APPROVES AIRPORT BUILDING

Aviation Committee Authorized To Let Contract for New Structure at Candler Field.

Early construction of a building and observation tower to house the postoffice, radio station and weather bureau at Candler field was seen Monday afternoon when council authorized the aviation committee to let the contract to the lowest bidder. The bids were opened at Monday's session of council, and as the lowest was higher than the appropriation provided by the city, council authorized the aviation committee to transfer $1,000 from the grading and fertilizing fund to the completion of the contract.

The lowest bid was offered by Arthur Pew, Jr., at a figure of $5,095 for the building and tower. The other bids follow: Yost Co., Inc., $6,220; Wagar and company, $6,240; G. H. Butler, $6,330; C. $25,000 Violin Is Stolen And Returned In Year

(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

New Hartford, July 16.—(Staff Correspondence.)—Efren Zimbalist's pet fiddle, stolen more than a year ago, was returned to the famous violinist at his summer home in the hills near New Hartford, having traveled 40,000 miles.

The violin is a Guadagnini, one of the rarest of the 18th century Cremonas. Similar ones have fetched $25,000 from collectors.

Zimbalist's Guadagnini was taken from his dressing room in a Los Angeles concert hall more than a year ago. Shortly after a musician offered it for sale to the Chicago representative of Rudolph Wurlitzer, the collector of old violins from whom Zimbalist bought his pet one. The police were called.

The glad news was cabled to Zimbalist when he was in Australia on tour. He asked his wife, Alma Gluck, who was about to leave New York to join him, to pick up his violin at Chicago. But the Los Angeles authorities wanted it for evidence and when Alma Gluck reached Chicago the violin was on its way west again.

Mrs. Zimbalist sailed for Australia leaving instructions to forward the

G. O. P. COMMITTEE MEMBER INDICTED FOR U. S. JOB SALES

Perry Howard, Negro, Party Leader in Mississippi Charged With Conspiracy To Sell Offices.

Biloxi, Miss., July 16.—(AP)—Sensations forecast Saturday when the federal grand jury investigating methods employed by state republican leaders in distributing patronage adjourned for the week-end appeared with surprising swiftness today while the inquisitorial force continued to receive additional evidence from the scores of witnesses it has summoned.

Although the district attorney and other court attaches refused confirmation, from Washington, it became known that Perry W. Howard, negro national republican committeeman from Mississippi and the acknowledged party leader in the state, had been indicted for conspiracy to violate the law prohibiting the sale of federal offices.

Charge of Indictment.

The indictment specifically charged that Howard, Scott Hubbard, a deputy United States marshal stationed here; S. D. Redmond, his brother, A. M. Redmond, and Ed L. Patton, Jackson negroes, conspired to violate the law prohibiting the sale of federal offices.

At present he is a rural mail carrier.

A capias for the arrest of Howard, a special assistant United States attorney general en route to Washington, where he maintains headquarters, for service, Hubbard, the Redmond brothers and Patton were arrested in Jackson this morning. They posted $2,500 temporary bail for their release pending arraignment here tomorrow morning before Judge E. H. Holmes.

Patton's arrest today brought the number of witnesses remaining to be heard in the case against him to seven. He was arrested Saturday with J. C. Tannehill, former deputy marshal of Sumner, and William E. Miller, postmaster at Wiggins on a similar charge. Tannehill and Miller also will be arraigned tomorrow, their appearance before Judge Holmes today being postponed because of the magistrate's absence in New Orleans.

Women Join With Sandino In Uprising

Female Battalion Battling U. S. Marines, Revolt Leader Asserts.

Barranquilla, Colombia, July 16.—(United News.)—A "Battalion of Women" has been organized by General Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel chief, to aid his forces in their warfare against the government and American marines, according to General Jose Ofar Rivas, in an interview published in La Nacion today.

General Rivas said these women, now concentrated at Campo Bonanza, already "have done heroic service in battle" and have the full confidence of the revolutionary leader.

The women have fought side by side with the men and one of them, Senora Adriana Flores, died on the field of battle, according to Rivas.

The general said his wife and the wife of Sandino are in command of the women and both have been through a number of battles. Margarita Aronx, Sandino's wife, replaced Senora Flores as a leader of the women when the latter was killed.

"These women have distinguished themselves in the fighting side by side with the men, whose dangers they share without shirking," Rivas added.

Rivas asserted Sandino has a following of 2,000 men always short of food and half naked but well equipped with guns and ammunition.

FIRE TO AVENGE LOSS OF POSITION, SAYS ASSAILANT

Chief Inspector Johnston and Inspector Morgan Griswold Wounded by Volley of Shots.

ATTACKER CAUGHT TRYING TO ESCAPE

Harry M. Deeran Tells Police He Was Discharged as Mail Carrier Because of Liberal Views

Joe P. Johnston, chief postal inspector of the southern district, and Morgan Griswold, inspector at Tampa, Fla., were shot down and seriously wounded Monday afternoon by Harry M. Deeran, a former mail carrier of Boston, Mass., who emptied a pistol into the two postal employees as they were walking along Fairlie street, behind the Atlanta postoffice.

Mr. Johnston was shot in the right shoulder and dropped to the pavement. Mr. Griswold, more seriously wounded, was hit in the neck, the bullet just missing the spinal column and emerging at his right jaw, and in the left shoulder. His condition Monday night was described at Grady hospital as serious, but it was believed that he would recover. Mr. Johnston was treated at Grady hospital and allowed to return to his office in the federal building.

Deeran, discharged letter carrier of Boston, gave as his sole motive "revenge on the federal government," according to police reports.

The shooting occurred during a busy time of the day on Fairlie street, and a half block away from the postoffice building. The government inspectors had just left their office and were on the way to lunch, when Deeran ran out of an alley on Fairlie street and opened fire.

Johnston hit in Shoulder.

One of the assailant's bullets grazed the hat of Inspector Johnston, while another shot proved more effective, striking Mr. Johnston in the shoulder. A stray shot from the assailant entered a window of the Retail Credit company on the opposite side of the street, but hit no one.

Following the shooting, Deeran ran into a basement of the building adjoining the Postal hotel on Fairlie street. A crowd quickly assembled about the scene of the shooting and Patrolman J. W. Harnett, on whose beat the shooting occurred, charged into the basement after Deeran with drawn pistol. Call Officers C. E. McCreary and Walter Goodie followed Patrolman Harnett into the building.

When apprehended by Officer Harnett the assailant was in the act of reloading his gun. "Well, if the gun hadn't snapped, you wouldn't have taken me alive," were the first words

ALLEGED SLAYER TO STAND TRIAL

Brunswick, Ga., July 16.—(AP)—Ernest G. Waller, captured in Baltimore, Md., last Wednesday, was arraigned in Glynn superior court today on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of C. A. Perry, cashier of the State Bank of Kingland.

Waller informed the court he had no funds to employ counsel. Judge J. H. Thomas said he would appoint an attorney to defend him and set the case for trial Thursday.

Two men, Homer Simpson and Malcolm Morrow, have been convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of the bank cashier. Upon his arrival here Waller maintained a plea of innocence he made at the time he was captured. He said he played no part in the crime further than driving the car for Morrow and Simpson from Jacksonville to Kingland, where the robbery and murder was committed.

Waller denied that he secured $1,200 after the automobile was wrecked in Jacksonville. He said he went to Leesburg, Fla., after he left Simpson and Morrow. There he borrowed $75 from his brother, then went to Atlanta. From Atlanta he said he went to California and later made his way to Baltimore.

Light Showers Expected Today After 'Lay-Off'

While Jupe Pluvius held off Atlanta for two days in succession, Sunday and Monday, chances are that light thunderstorms will rule over the city late this afternoon, C. F. von Herrmann, local weather forecaster, said, although the indications are by no means definite, he added.

Temperatures today will be closely in the neighborhood of those of Monday, which ranged from a low mark of 73 degrees to a high reading of 80 degrees, both of which are about normal for the time of year, Mr. von Herrmann said.

Box Lunches Make Workers For Ford Ill

Somerville, Mass., July 16.—(AP)—More than 150 employees of the assembling plant here and several employees of concerns in adjacent cities became ill today after eating lunches supplied by a Boston lunch company.

So great was the confusion caused in the Ford plant that it was necessary to suspend work for the remainder of the afternoon and to call into service all of those employees not stricken to aid in transporting the sick persons to hospitals and to their homes.

Illness also was reported among the employees of the Revere Sugar refinery in Revere and of the S. M. Hovess company, of Charlestown.

At noon, as was customary, many of the employees purchased lunch boxes prepared by a Boston chain lunch syndicate. Included in the prepared lunches were ham, cheese and bologna sandwiches, cream, pie and milk.

The general illness first became apparent at about 2 o'clock when several women collapsed at their work. For more than an hour afterward men and women collapsed in all sections of the shop.

Ambulances were called and employees with automobiles as well as passing motorists were summoned to aid in transporting the ill. Conditions became so acute that officials of the

GOSNELL ATTACKS LONG BALLOT EVIL

Athens, Ga., July 16.—(AP)—Mrs. R. L. Turman, Atlanta, brought woman suffrage into the discussion of the Institute of Politics when she made an appeal for the women of the state to exercise the right of the ballot. She said those women who do not vote fail to carry out obligations due those leaders who fought so valiantly and so long to secure woman suffrage.

Mrs. Turman declared the indifference of the American voter was the principal menace threatening the United States.

The long ballot in the south has reduced the effectiveness of the voter, in the belief of Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell, of Emory university, who spoke today at the institute.

"In our demands for popular government the pendulum has swung too far in the south," Dr. Gosnell said.

"We have come to the point where we think every person from 'dog-eater' to governor should be elected by the people. The result is that very often inefficient and unfit men are elected to office and the machine is made much more effective."

"The long ballot reduces the effectiveness of the voter, for it is impossible for him to know anything scarcely about all of the candidates he must vote for. Out in Multnomah county, Oregon, a few years ago, the ballot was about three feet long and there were some 150 candidates running for 42 offices. How could the voter cast an intelligent vote under such circumstances? Here in Georgia the situation is almost as bad, for numerous county, city, state and other officials are elected by the people—practically all of them in fact. Even as intelligent a man as Woodrow Wilson was overwhelmed by the number of officials he had to vote for."

He said the short ballot would "insure harmony in the administrative system and this is very desirable."

Sam J. Slate, state auditor, was the principal speaker at today's session. Mr. Slate gave a comprehensive description of the organization and function of Georgia's departmental government. His entire review will be found on the editorial page of today's issue.

"What is the remedy for this situation? It is the short ballot. All minor state administrative officials should be appointed by the governor except policy-determining officials."

Mr. Gosnell believes that "if the people have only a few men to vote for they will be able to find out more about them and they can express their own choice. Thus the voter will be more effective and 'blind voting' will be eliminated. Knowing that the governor has so much power, the voters will be careful and elect a good man."

He said the short ballot would "insure harmony in the administrative system and this is very desirable."

"As a matter of fact his majesty's government has made up its mind, but it is necessary for us to communicate with the British dominions before we formulate and deliver our reply. France and Germany do not need to communicate with other governments."

EX-CARRIER SHOTS POSTAL CHIEF AND AID

reported to have been uttered by Deeran when the officers came upon him.

The former carrier was taken to police headquarters, where he is being held on a blanket charge of suspicion. The victims of the shooting were rushed to Grady hospital, where Griswold appeared at first to be in a serious condition. Later, attaches of the hospital reported his injuries as not critical, stating that his chances for recovery were good. Inspector Johnston's wound proved slight, and later in the day he returned to his office in the federal building.

Revenge on Government.

"I wanted to show the government that they couldn't inflict all kinds of upon me and get away with it," Deeran told his questioners at police headquarters Monday, referring to his discharge from the government postal service. The assailant of the two postoffice officials gave his age as 54 years, saying that in his native land of Armenia his name was Deserian, and that since his naturalization in America, many years ago, he has been known as Deeran. He declared that since his discharge in 1925 he has been in desperate economic straits to provide for himself and his family.

Shortly after being seized by the police, Deeran said he was assigned to his fate and "ready for the electric chair," according to reports at headquarters. In relating the story of his life, leading up to the shooting incident, the Bostonian asserted he had been employed for 17 years as a mail carrier in Boston. Three years ago he was discharged for his alleged liberal views, Deeran declared.

"My discharge brought all kinds of shame and disgrace upon me," the prisoner said. "I had always held my job above everything else except God. Since my discharge in 1925 I have had nothing but hard times," he continued, complaining that the stain on his record kept him from obtaining any permanent positions. He had been in Atlanta four weeks before the shooting took place Monday, and was reported to have said that he had been watching for Joe Johnston.

The attacker of the two inspectors is being held pending the outcome of the police. Deeran said he was assigned to his fate and "ready for the electric chair," according to reports at headquarters. In relating the story of his life, leading up to the shooting incident, the Bostonian asserted he had been employed for 17 years as a mail carrier in Boston. Three years ago he was discharged for his alleged liberal views, Deeran declared.

Mr. Griswold had recovered sufficiently late Monday night to be interviewed by reporters. In speaking of the shooting he said, "I am sorry that my wife heard that I was fatally wounded, as it was first stated in newspaper accounts, she will be worried too much." Mrs. Griswold is speeding to her husband's bedside from their home in Tampa, Fla.

"I don't know much to tell about it," he said. "Mr. Johnston and I had gone out to get some lunch and as we passed an alley I heard a shot and felt a pain in my neck, even then I didn't know I was shot and we turned to see what the shooting was about. When we turned around we saw that we were the targets and then a fusillade of bullets came our way."

Griswold apparently is little worried over his condition, laughing and talking freely with reporters, and asking them to come back to see him again.

H. M. DEERAN DISMISSED FOR "INCOMING CONDUCT."

Boston, July 16.—(AP)—Harry M. Deeran, who shot two postoffice inspectors in Atlanta today, was removed as a mail carrier at the Boston postoffice January 31, 1925, after he had been found guilty of conduct unbecoming a mail carrier, postal inspectors here said. He was charged with insulting female patrons on his route.

After his arrest in Atlanta Deeran said he had been discharged from the Boston postoffice force because he held "liberal views."

POSTMASTER GENERAL "DEEPLY SHOCKED."

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—Informed of the Atlanta postoffice shooting, Postmaster General "new immediate telephone Atlanta to express sympathy and ask further details.

"I am deeply shocked to learn of this outrage," Mr. New said. "Joe Johnston was chief inspector here in Washington under the Wilson administration, and everyone liked him very much."

HUNDREDS PASS BY BIER OF FLIER

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Through-out the day and evening a line of silent persons, with women predominating, moved through the funeral parlor where lay the body of Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexico's best-known aviator.

Although the casket was finally closed on order of Consul General Arturo Elias and they could not look upon the youth who crashed last Thursday while flying homeward, those who came to pay their respects were in numbers sufficient to form a long line, leading to the door.

"Kansas Wonder Girl" Solves Problems
Of Atlanta Over Constitution Phone

SCORES APPLY FOR HELP TO GENE DENNIS AT THIS PAPER

Miss Gene Dennis, the girl mystic, at right, answering queries propounded Monday by phone while she was a visitor at The Constitution's classified advertising department. This picture was made at the department's big, special switchboard as Miss Dennis donned headphones and transmitter to answer questions.

BY LLOYD A. WILHOIT.
Atlanta broadcast its cares and problems Monday into the sympathetic ears of Gene Dennis, youthful mystic from Kansas, who this week is appearing at the Howard theater.

For half an hour Miss Dennis visited the classified advertising department of The Constitution and answered questions from perplexed Atlantans as fast as girls manning the big departmental switchboard could "plug" you.

The girl marvel answered the queries good-naturedly and added a bit of sage advice here and there.

"Yes, your boy friend is true to you," she smilingly assured one anxious maiden. And then added: "But you'd better quit going with that blond fellow; you know your regular beau doesn't like that."

Warns One Caller.
"He's lying to you—he's already married," she told another caller. "Let him alone."

"Your father is in the east; you'll hear from him about Christmas time." "Yes, he'll get his divorce and marry."

These and many others were answered rapidly over the phone. She informed one caller that a missing jeweled pin went out in the wash.

SLATE OUTLINES NEEDS OF GEORGIA

Years ago nor can we run the business of the state with the same machinery of 1877. With a spirit of cooperation and this spirit is essential to the advancement of our state, we can do much to improve efficiency in government. We also need to realize that before we can advance we will be compelled to see conditions as they exist and to face them fearlessly.

This commission should go into a thorough and scientific survey of the government, how it can coordinate, resulting in the consolidation of all state functions into 12 or 15 major departments with responsible heads under executive control, suggesting name, duties, titles, etc., of each department and steps that are necessary and draft the laws necessary to complete such a reorganization of the state government to the legislature for their approval.

"When this survey has been made it should be ascertained from all the data brought in what the cost of the service which the citizens demands will be for education, for eleemosynary, penal and corrective institutions; for health conservation, agriculture and for all our various administrative departments and knowing this, to provide means of raising revenue. This commission should carefully inquire into the cost and need of every state function. As Chief Justice Marshall said, 'That the power of tax is the greatest power placed upon the legislature and this is also the power to destroy.' No function of the state government should be undertaken unless that survey disclosed that such service will provide far greater good to the people as a whole than the tax for its support would cost. This is the necessary study of taxation."

"In addition to this reorganization, it will be purposeless and useless unless the following things are done: First, before the installation of any budget law or budget system in Georgia, all income of whatever kind and character from whatever source should be covered into the state treasury. All income in this sense means gross income, and every item of income, all expenditures of the state and all its departments and institutions should be authorized by appropriation of the legislature stated."

Necessarily for Control.
"The department of accounts and control should be established at the capitol which should keep account of all departments, a uniform accounting system at all the state institutions so that information for the budget be based upon figures. A budget law, with teeth in it, should be enacted for Georgia and all appropriations should be made under the terms and classifications of the budget. The state budget should be first a guide for legislative action, a method of control for the executive and information for the taxpayer in regard to public expenditures; the second essential of the state budget should be that it be on a scientific basis, from an accounting standpoint and in easily understood terms for the average citizen. "The budget law should set up the office of budget director whose duty it should be to gather and record data, and under control of the governor, prepare estimate of needs for the ensuing biennium formulating and recommending the financial plan for the state."

"The budget director should be allowed to sit in the legislature and explain every detail of the budget while it is under discussion and until formally adopted and become the appropriation act. The budget director should be charged with the execution of the budget, to see that the money is expended according to the terms of the budget, and to transfer funds to be made except under the authority of the budget director, the governor and state auditor."

"I shall not discuss the theory of the budget because I presume you students of political affairs have approved the theory of the modern budget for state business, instead of our present antiquated and wasteful method. "I have endeavored as best I can to present to you a more or less concrete picture, possibly not as clear as I would like to draw, so that you can gather some idea from it."

"During the week we shot below the various phases of this same question. I believe all of us in the study of this grave and great question will be actuated by a sincere desire to understand the situation and to try to make more effective government of our state."

2 LEADING FIGURES IN DEPOT SHOOTING RETURN TO DUTIES
Back at their desks in adjoining offices, H. C. Garrison, building superintendent of the Terminal station, who Saturday shot Patrick M. Sullivan, and Louise M. Stanfield, 30-year-old clerk in Garrison's office, Monday resumed their business routine after the melodramatic shooting, which took place just outside the same office.

Sullivan, who was shot just below the heart, was reported last Monday to be resting easily at Grady hospital, with recovery in sight, unless complications set in.

Garrison will make a plea of self-defense in the shooting of Sullivan, when he is arraigned on July 28. He is at liberty on $2,000 bond.

Miss Stanfield charged that Garrison had attempted to force his attentions upon her, and that Sullivan's act in attacking the aged man was one of resentment. Garrison denied the charge. I. W. Bentley, Garrison's secretary, made a statement that he was a witness to the affair and that he believed it was impossible for Miss Stanfield to have seen the shooting, as she stated to police.

EASTERN CHURCHES HIT BY NEGRO MIGRATION
Boston, July 16.—(Special).—Information coming from the colored pastors and civic organization of the commonwealth of Massachusetts disclosed today that the membership of the churches has decreased one-third by the migration of negroes from here to the north and other sections, declared Rev. W. H. Dabbs, pastor of Concord Baptist church Monday afternoon.

This condition is due to the people in the north finding employment and being compelled to seek other places, where they can find employment, continued the speaker.

The principal address was delivered by Rev. B. R. Holmes, president and founder of the Holmes Institute, Atlanta. Rev. Holmes said in delivering his address that better opportunities were being offered the colored people in the south to get employment than has ever been known in its history.

JURY IS SELECTED IN FLOGGING TRIAL

Milledgeville, Ga., July 16.—(Special).—The prosecution late Monday rested its case in the trial of Fountain Hardy, Wilkinson county farmer, for alleged participation of flogging of James T. Angles, Baldwin county farmer, on May 2, in southern portion of Baldwin county.

Solicitor General Joseph B. Duke placed four witnesses for the state on the stand including Angles and his wife, Dr. John W. Mobley and J. P. Lingold, a farmer residing in the same community with Angles. Twenty-four witnesses had been summoned but only these four were placed on the stand.

Judge James B. Park, presiding, ordered the jury locked up for the night and defense attorneys will place their witnesses on stand Tuesday morning upon convening of court 99 witnesses have been summoned by the defense and all but are understood to be chained by each defendant. All jurors not serving on the Hardy case were instructed by Judge Park to remain away from the court room during the trial.

Angles was on witness stand about two hours and swore he identified the three men indicted but admitted that he had had previous misunderstandings with each of them about whisky deals and political matters.

Recognized Fourth Man.
He also stated that he recognized the fourth man involved in the flogging and had seen him since but did not know his name. Mrs. Angles corroborated the testimony of her husband.

Hardy, the defendant, gave no information as to guilty parties but testified Angles had been severely beaten. The case is expected to reach the jury Tuesday afternoon.

Sixty-nine witnesses are summoned to testify Tuesday in defense of Hardy.

When the case was called Monday Solicitor Duke elected to try each defendant separately and Hardy was first to be put on trial.

"I have genius, virility and determination," Mr. Borglum said here Monday. "He dreams, but he has the courage and the soul to carry through his dreams. Of such stuff is he that I have not seen a man in years who so interests me. He walked into my studio in San Antonio one day while I was out. So he took a hike of a hundred and more miles to Laredo so that he might look across the Rio Grande into Old Mexico. Then he returned and waited around that he might shake my hand, as he said when we met.

"The boy said he wanted to be a sculptor. I asked him if he would like to work with me and the quick, alert manner in which he brightened showed me something more than dreams. He left me some poems and, as I was busy, went away after I had suggested that he go to school for another year or two. I didn't even know his name. I thought he was from Raleigh, N. C. A couple of days later I read his poems and studied the sketches he had left with me. I knew I wanted to know that boy better so I went to North Carolina, looking for him.

"The Associated Press and its member newspapers now have found him and soon we will meet again. When I said he was a 'boy with a soul,' I was only describing a something I found in him, a rare quality of genius and the ability and energy to carry his dreams to completion."

Mr. Borglum, when asked about the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, said he did not have any comment to make.

EDITOR OF GREEK DAILY IS BRIEF VISITOR HERE

Stopping over in Atlanta Monday en route from New York to Athens, where he will take a leading part in the sessions of the institute of public affairs today and Wednesday, Adonios Th. Polyzoides, editor of the Greek Daily Atlantis, of New York city, paid his second visit to the south.

His interpretation of "The American Presidential Campaign Through European Eyes" is expected to be a highlight of the institute.

Mr. Borglum, when he learned the boy had left Atlanta, started back for Greenville and Spartanburg. His route was by Athens, where he hoped to catch up with the Alabama youth, who is determined to be a sculptor and equally determined to study under Mr. Borglum.

The sculptor said that if the clerk at the Georgian hotel in Athens had no word of Rayford, he would go on to Greenville, Spartanburg and then to Charlotte. Somewhere along this route, or at the end of it, the two will meet. Newspapers and the Associated Press will tell the movements of each and their paths, destined to come together, must meet.

The "boy with a soul," as Mr. Borglum described him last week after a trip from Texas to North Carolina in search of the lad who had hiked and bummed rides from Alabama to San Antonio to shake hands with the great sculptor, became noted over-night, when newspapers carried Associated Press stories of the search by Mr. Borglum, who did not even know the youth's name.

Training Grind Of Champion Nearly Over

Only Five More Days of Hard Work Remain for Tunney.

Speculating on the days of intensive training for his titular bout with Tommy Heenev, the New Zealand artisan, are nearing their end. Only five of them remain before he quits his job and returns to his native New Zealand. The Commander Richard Byrd and Bert Balchen, on July 26, the day of the fight.

This was the last of Gene's work in the life box for four times this week starting tomorrow, and once during the week of the championship battle, probably next Tuesday and Wednesday, and early today and ran up and back from his secluded cabin on the edge of Lake Pleasant to Mukluks Lake, the round trip. He had breakfasted and went into a huddle with Billy Gilson, his manager, over the mailing of the 300-odd fight tickets which the champion purchased for his friends.

During the day Tunney learned that Commander Byrd planned to arrive here tomorrow by plane. General intends to ask the polar flyer to return here for him early on the day

The champion spent the afternoon and early evening resting at his lake-side cabin. He appeared quite unaffected by Promoter Tex Rickard's view that he was down "a bit too fine," for this stage of his training. This opinion was received lightly also by a majority of the Tunney campers. They contended that the champion knows more about his own physical self than any other person.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS.

The young Elizabeth is the adopted daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Barry. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor, Miss Bailey.

At 12 Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her Aunt Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Wilbur.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances. Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Wilbur dies suddenly in a fit of rage and Elizabeth learns to her consternation that her aunt had frittered away the money her husband had left her and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well. Afraid to face Stephen's reaction Elizabeth decides to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job on the stage. Stephen finds her with Mark and offers to help her, even though his business has failed. She refuses his help and advice and takes a part in Mark's new play.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

THE ETERNAL CHILD.

Elizabeth did not smile. She did not want to think of nice Mr. Lennox married to anybody. No, the famous dramatist was to owe his great success to the famous young actress, and a romantic life friendship was to come of it.

"Seen anything of Keene lately?" asked Mark.

"He took me to dinner and to the theater last night. He is a dear old gentleman and ever so kind. He makes me feel almost as if I were a sort of relative, a granddaughter or something."

Mark stifled a laugh. Luckless Keene for all his 50,000 pounds a year. Perhaps he possessed just one "fifty" too many. So his honorable intentions were to be wasted. "Well, don't offer to be a granddaughter to him when he times out," he said. "He might not like it."

"What time?" asked Elizabeth innocently.

Mark would not tell her. "You will find out soon enough for yourself, young woman. Perhaps by that time you may even realize that quite a lot of pleasant things (and most women would consider 50,000 a year and an indulgent husband pleasant enough) have a snag somewhere."

"Have they? But not fame and fortune. That must always be glorious and perfect."

"I wonder!" Mark's face grew suddenly grave. Fame and fortune! His old goal, the thing to which he had already sacrificed so much, was prepared to sacrifice everything. Suppose it turned out not to be worth it after all? He thrust the thought aside. "Have you seen Stephen lately?" he inquired.

Elizabeth went very pink. "He's too busy doing his bankruptcy to bother about me," she said with a snort.

"I told you there is no question of that; all is settled and he is paying 20 shillings to the pound."

"Well, I don't want to see him. We can't meet without scrapping. He has an awful temper!" At the same time she was glad to hear his business affairs were now in order. She could send those two ten-pound notes and know that at least she had started to pay off her debt.

"It's rotten luck on him," burst out Mark. "If his swine of creditors had paid up and not cheated him he would never have been in this mess!" Elizabeth went white. Was this true? Had she helped to ruin Stephen? The very idea made her feel quite sick. But she would pay him back. "O, Mr. Lennox, the play must be a success, everything depends upon it!" she burst out feverishly. "I think it would kill me if anyone let you down on the night. And I'm so nervous about Mr. Rochester and that fat girl. I simply can't believe in them, and even Lydia Morley, well, she doesn't really seem to care, does she?"

"It'll be all right," said Mark confidently. "Howard is a genius at producing, he's never staged a failure, yet. . . . Hello, I say if there isn't old Stephen standing on the doorstep! Now don't proceed to bite and fight, there's a good girl."

"Bite?" echoed Elizabeth going a dark crimson. "As if I ever would!"

Stephen was looking pale and worn, his suit was shabby, but he was as well groomed as ever, as distinguished and noticeable. He had a smile for Mark and greeted his ward kindly enough. "Well, and how is the young Elizabeth getting on?"

"O, quite well, aren't I, Mr. Lennox? I did know all my part, didn't I?"

"Rather!" agreed Mark absently. "Come and have a drink, old man. You look all in."

While Mark sought soda and glasses, Elizabeth turned quickly to her guardian, her hands twisting. "About business things? Will you have to be quite poor?"

"Possibly. But there are worse things than poverty," he spoke more cheerfully than he felt. After having been master it would not be easy to be the servant, or perhaps even easy to find a post at all in an overcrowded world, and start afresh at 30.

"It must be dreadful not to be able to have nice things," faltered Elizabeth, "but . . . but, Stephen, I am to have 10 pounds a week when the show starts, any of course much more after a bit, and I am going to save up and pay back every penny."

"What do you mean?"

"I haven't forgotten that money we spent, if you have. I owe you two thousand of it and I'm going to pay it back."

He frowned, looking embarrassed. "Don't be so absurd, child. That had nothing to do with you. You knew nothing about it."

"That makes no difference. I helped to spend it, and I shan't spend anything on myself till it's all paid back."

He laughed, he could not help it. This spoiled child to keep such a resolution, to forego one desired frock!

"Absurd child!" he said indulgently. Elizabeth stamped her foot. "Yes, that's all you think I am, and at my age! A child! Half an idiot . . ."

Well, I'm not a helpless one at any rate as you will find out! Try Stephen's gray eyes twinkled, his stern mouth softened. How could one take Elizabeth seriously, he angry with such an irresponsible little creature? She was just the eternal child, she would never grow up—any more than her Aunt Dolly had ever grown up—but at times she was rather an enchanting child. When she stamped her feet and her blue eyes flashed she was like a baby in a rage, a baby that one longed to comfort and pet, though one's common sense told one it was rather a naughty baby and that slapping was the right thing. It was absurd to be angry with her even for a moment, more than absurd to take her seriously. It was unreasonable while rejecting youth to expect from it the qualities of the sage. Of course, Elizabeth hadn't brain or heart or soul; she was probably happier without them. Well, let her be happy; after all happiness was much, possibly even everything. Elizabeth was a butterfly born of the butterfly people; why seek to bruise a pretty wing? Let it fly in the sun, back on the flower, and its brief magic day. What if he had been cheated of his own youth; was that any reason why he should seek to cheat Elizabeth of hers? Try to force upon her consciousness the serious things of life; for her there were no serious things, she brought her light through life, a little bit of thistle-down floating above the mud and the stones. She would be married by 20, inevitably to some rich and indulgent (God help him!) who would guard her from one harsh reality. And then she would pass out of his life (old the thought should bring almost a pain in its wake!), but while she remained his responsibility he could at least be kind to the silly, pretty little thing.

He took the delicate, sensitive little hands in his, holding them closely. "Dear child," he said, "of course you are not an idiot! You're just the young Elizabeth."

Dolly had been no idiot where her own interests were concerned, and she had known enough to make the fullest use of the bonds he had so carelessly left in her hands.

Elizabeth, looking up, saw the rare laughter in his eyes. "Why, Stephen, is quite young really," she thought. What a contrast to the Poet in every way! She had complained that he was grim and grave; now she was angry because he was laughing—and at her.

She pulled her hands away. "You don't really know me, Stephen," she said petulantly. "You only think you do! Some day I shall surprise you."

"I don't doubt it!" He spoke a little less fully. It never occurred to him that the surprise could be anything but an unpleasant one.

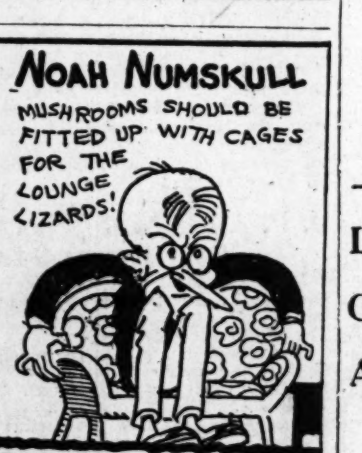

"You think I'm all empty inside," she went on indignantly. "And I'm not at all! I'm simply full of things, really."

To her further indignation Stephen only laughed.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER IS STARTLED.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Love of those who hold most dear Overcomes all selfish fear.

Peter Rabbit left the dear Old Briar-patch, lippy-lippy-lippy, and headed for the home of one of Johnny Chuck's children, which was between the dear Old Briar-patch and the Old Pasture. It was the only place of safety in time of danger between the two places. If he didn't find Mrs. Peter there she would be in the nearest bramble-tangle in the Old Pasture, unless something had happened to her.

As Peter drew near the home of that Chuck he stopped abruptly and used his wobbly little nose. An unpleasant odor tickled it. It was a most unpleasant odor. That is, it was most unpleasant to Peter. It made little chills run all over him.

"Reddy Fox has been around here," thought Peter. "He has been around here very recently. He may be somewhere around now. I hope he hasn't caught Mrs. Peter. She shouldn't have left the dear Old Briar-patch. No, sir, she shouldn't have left the dear Old Briar-patch."

Peter moved very carefully now. Every two or three steps he stopped to look and listen and use his wobbly little nose. The scent of Reddy Fox grew stronger. It took real courage to go on. If it hadn't been for the thought of Little Mrs. Peter and his anxiety about her he would have turned tail and made straight for the dear Old Briar-patch.

But Peter reached the main entrance to the Chuck's home without any adventure. He saw nothing of Reddy Fox, although his scent remained strong. With a little sigh of thankfulness, Peter poked his head inside the door. He half expected to find Little Mrs. Peter just inside. But there was no one just inside. Peter crept in and part way down the lower hall. His nose told him that Mrs. Peter had not been there. His heart sank. He had counted on finding her there.

"She must have gone to the Old Pasture, unless—" Peter didn't finish the thought. It was too dreadful. With that strong scent of Reddy Fox all about, he knew that Mrs. Peter was not there.

GEORGIA REGIMENT REACHES MCCLELLAN

Camp McClellan, Ala., July 16.—(Special).—The 122d Infantry, Georgia National Guard, pulled into Camp McClellan Sunday by train, set up its tents, got organized for field service and was ready for drill call this morning, the first of two weeks in intensive training here. The regiment is commanded by Colonel Charles H. Cox, of Atlanta.

Other officers who are here are Lieutenant Colonel Gerald E. O'Keefe, Captain E. P. Tuttle, adjutant; First Lieutenant W. L. Mottos, personal adjutant, and Chaplain McElrath, all of regional headquarters.

Two battalions of the regiment are from Atlanta, the first commanded by Major Charles E. Thompson, and the second, commanded by Major T. L. Alexander. The third battalion, commanded by Major A. N. Drake, comes from Elberton, Ga. Major Sirroa B. Hawkins, commands the special units of the regiment.

Incidentally, the Georgia soldiers will find an old Georgia private in command of Camp McClellan. He is Colonel Lochlin W. Caffey. Back in 1898 when the second Georgia was organized for Spanish-American war service, Colonel Caffey marched away from Atlanta with a rifle on his shoulder as a private in Company A. Since that time he has risen through hard service in the regular army to the rank of colonel. He has been in command here for the past nine months and recently received orders transferring him to Fort McPherson to command the 22nd Infantry.

Captain Harry Heins, of Atlanta, supply officer of the regiment, has been a camp since Friday preparing for the reception of the different companies. With him was Captain L. O. Moseley, plans and training officer, and about 65 non-commissioned officers and men, mostly from Atlanta. These brought with them the tents and equipment needed for the first night in camp.

It is expected that the regiment will spend about three days in intensive, basic training, to be followed by work of the range, firing rifle, machine gun, pistol and bowitzer.

There are four regular army officers here for duty as instructors for the 122nd. They are Lieutenant Colonel "Pat" Stevens, and Captains E. N. Stalke and Williams.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please

Wear what you please

Do what you please

Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spa and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want To

Fayro reduces weight generally, but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. Inside each package you get an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores."

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine today approved the plan for the formation of the Florida Citrus Growers' clearing house. The approval was subject to a provision that the actions of the operating board of the association shall be subject to the veto of the board of directors which will be comprised of growers.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP)—Hoping to overcome the last obstacle standing in the way of federal approval of a clearing house association being organized to handle the Florida citrus crop, a group of Florida growers, shippers and state officials held a second conference today with officials of the department of Agriculture.

Commissioner of Agriculture Mayo of Florida, said that the growers and shippers were in agreement with an agreement upon organization technicalities the form of which would meet the approval of the department. Department approval, he said, was necessary to permit the combination of growers and shippers to come under the provisions of the Capper-Volstead act which permits the association to sue such groups without their being subjected to anti-trust provisions.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

UNDER THE TERMS OF THE TREATY OF 1868, THE SIOUX INDIANS AGREED TO LIVE ON A RESERVATION IN THE WESTERN PART OF SOUTH DAKOTA. THEY WERE GRANTED THE RIGHT TO HUNT IN THE MOUNTAINOUS COUNTRY TO THE WEST OF THE RESERVATION, AND WERE ASSURED THAT WHITE MEN WOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO TRESPASS ON THIS HUNTING GROUND.

SIX YEARS LATER, GEN. CUSTER LED AN EXPLORING EXPEDITION INTO THIS REGION. THE EXPLORERS FOUND GOLD IN THE BLACK HILLS, AND THE REPORT OF THE DISCOVERY ATTRACTED NUMBERS OF PROSPECTORS AND ADVENTURERS.

Discovery of Gold in the Black Hills.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE INDIANS RESENTED THIS VIOLATION OF THE TREATY, AND VOICED THEIR PROTESTS IN A CONFERENCE HELD AT THE RED CLOUD INDIAN AGENCY. THE SOLDIERS PROMISED TO REMOVE THE INTRUDERS, AND WARNED ALL THE FORTUNE HUNTERS TO GET OUT.

HOWEVER, THE GOLD IN THE BLACK HILLS STILL BECKONED TO THE MINERS, AND IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE THEY CAME DRIFTING BACK INTO THE MOUNTAINS ON VARIOUS PRETEXTS. THE INDIANS WERE SILENT AND HOSTILE, AND REPORTS OF FREQUENT MURDERS OF WHITE MEN CAME FROM THE BLACK HILLS LIKE LOW MUTTERINGS OF THE GATHERING STORM.

HOOPER IS GUEST AT CEDAR ISLAND

Superior, Wis., July 16.—(AP)—Revisiting the northern hills of Wisconsin for the first time in 15 years, Herbert Hoover tonight was the guest of President Coolidge at Cedar Island lodge in the Brule river 40 miles from this city.

The republican presidential standard-bearer came here while on his formal notification, in order to discuss with the chief executive the political situation in general, his acceptance speech to be delivered at Palo Alto August 11 and his successor as secretary of commerce. He will remain until tomorrow when the westward journey will be resumed.

Arriving early in the day from Washington, Mr. Hoover was met by a cheering crowd of town folk and was accompanied by thousands of others who lined the main thoroughfares over which his automobile moved to the open country of the long and somewhat dusty ride to the summer white house.

At the lodge the nominee and Mrs. Hoover, who rode in an open car from the white house, were greeted by the president and Mrs. Coolidge and John A. Spaulding, who is spending the summer here with his parents. They chatted awhile on the front piazza before the newspaper correspondents and photographers were invited within the grounds.

The photographers were served first, the president and Mrs. Coolidge, their guests and the nominee and Mrs. Hoover. The Coolidges were dressed in white, and the Hoovers wore a double-breasted blue serge coat with white flannel trousers and white shoes. Mr. Hoover had on a double-breasted blue serge coat.

After the group photograph, the president and the nominee aspired to succeed him together seated in a gayly painted wicker chairs.

Carry on a conversation, Mr. President, requested one of the photographers.

BURIAL CHAPEL HILL TODAY FOR A. R. BOMAR

Funeral services for Armistead Rice Bomar, of Douglasville, Confederate veteran and member of a prominent pioneer Georgia family, will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Chapel Hill and interment will be in the family cemetery here. Mr. Bomar died in a local hospital Sunday after several weeks of illness. He was 85 years of age.

For many years Mr. Bomar has been prominently connected with all philanthropic interests in his county and throughout the state. His death, while not sudden, was a blow to the many friends he had made during his long life. Mr. Bomar's ancestors were among the early settlers of this state and members of his family were prominent in many phases of the state's development.

He fought in the war between the states in company E of the 35th Georgia regiment. At the time of his death he was a member of the Douglasville Masonic lodge. He was prominently identified with the New Hope Baptist church, at Chapel Hill, being a charter member of that congregation.

Mr. Bomar is survived by three daughters, Mrs. A. D. Olds, of College Park, Ga.; Mrs. W. D. Travis, of Covington, and Mrs. E. E. Lee, of Dallas, Texas; five grandchildren, Mr. Bomar A. LOCAL POLICE BAND MEMBERS INDUCTED INTO MILITARY BODY

In connection with a discussion of plans for that organization to represent Atlanta and Georgia at the national convention of Spanish American War veterans, to be held in Havana, Cuba, October 7 to 12, approximately 50 members of the Atlanta police band were inducted into the military body.

The ceremony took place at the police station Monday night, by the Fitzhugh Lee and Roosevelt camps of Atlanta. Francis Guerra, young Cuban consul in Atlanta, in behalf of the president of his country, extended a cordial invitation to the band to visit Cuba, and expressed the belief that "it would never, never regret the trip."

Aldermen Claude E. Buchanan, Guy Dobbs and W. B. Hartsfield, who were members of the first band, were present. The mayor, also expressed a desire that the band would be able to attend the convention, and stated that they would do everything possible to make the trip a reality.

Colonel John P. Hanson, in conferring the degrees, characterized the band as being "a highly patriotic organization and entirely worthy of the honor."

After the ceremonies, short talks and discussions, the band offered a concert for the many veterans and their wives present.
